comed and heartily entertained by the management.

The party included a four-in-hand Cape cart and four-teen horses, which took part in the races. General Ben Viljoen and Commandant Boshoff each captained a team in a tug of war which caused great fun. Boss Walker, who is in charge of the savages at the camp, was to be anchor" for Commandant Boshoff's team, but he is so immense that it was decieared impossible to shift him, and to pick a fair side he had to be left out.

General Viljoen's team included several Boer officers, among them Commandant Moll. Electionart Wolmarans of the artillery and P. Visser, the lecturer, who is 6 feet 7 inches in height. After a long and hard oull General Viljoen's team pulled the other over the line.

E. Werthelm, a sprinter of class, would certainly have won his heat in the 10-yard dash had he not been penalized three yards, and more should be heard of him. W. C. Purcell of the Triple A. Forshaw of M. A. C. and Wagner of the Boer contingent started. Of these only Forshaw and Rudolph finished, the former winning in 5.04. Purcell quit after he had made three of the five laps and complained of having injured himself last Wednesday. The weather was too hot for the others.

In the broad jump, T. Tracy, unattached, won with a jump of 22 feet inches. Later it was found that he had not registered with the A. A. U. and was disqualified. He had started in the hopsiep, and jump event and had made a great distance, when he was also put out of this event. The broad jump was awarded to Holloway of the Greater New York Irish Club, with a jump of 22 feet 2 inches. Another event that will likely be protested is the 220-yard run. This was won by C. Foster of the Iroquois A. A. He had a handleap of eleven yards and won in a walk from such men as Turner and Heckwolf. It was doubted whether he had sent in his correct last performances. In the hundred, Turner won, with Foster second and Heckwolf third. The latter seemed to be a little off form and only landed fourth place in the 220.

Those who heard him say he seemed to linger with special and impressive emphasis on the necessity of over being prepared to render an immediate and exact account of one's stewardship. to-day to decide to send their committee back to see President Roosevelt after failing to present their petitions last Tuesday. During that time the opposition to this plan, comprising one-third of the delegates, fought it vigorously with voice and gesture. So vigorous were the speeches in fact, that the delegates resolved that nothing must be told to anyone except the fact that the committee would again call upon the President.

It was declared that there had been so much talk that further discussion in the papers would have a bad effect. In a word, there was a marked political flavor to these objections to publicity, and every delegate as he left the room was strictly enjoined to say he would know nothing if accosted by anyone.

There were twenty-three present, and of these six or seven voiced their opinion of the treatment received by the committee in no uncertain voice, after the report of Burke and Herskokitz was heard.

The arguments on each side were vigorous, the opposition declaring that the committee had been turned down once and that was enough considering that they represented 25,000 workingmen. They did not want to give the President the opportunity to make amends at this late day.

D. J. Davis, the man whose telegram to the President resulted in the latter's offer to see the committee, was refused admission to the meeting and his action was repudiated.

It is said with much heat he had no authority to represent either the Central Labor Union or the mine workers, and his telegrams were not accepted. So bitter was the feeling that it was ordered that President John B. Walsh should himself send a telegram to the President, and accordingly Walsh to-night sent this:

"To William Loeb, Jr., Secretary to the President: You can arrange to receive a committee of the Central Labor Union to see the President on Tuesday afternoon, or when? Please answer.

(Signed) "JOHN B. WALSH." There were twenty-three present, and of Washington, July 17 .- After resisting all the skill of two experts connected with the Treasury Department, a small safe belonging to Colonel J. Eldridge Smith, an inventor who died recently, has finally been opened, and now the question is whether it was opened in answer to Mrs Smith's prayers or through information coming direct from Colonel Smith to S. Clark Swett, a Spiritualistic medium. Mrs. Smith scouts the idea of Spiritualism, but Mr. Swett, under whose manipulations the safe door swung open, says it was nothing else. The little safe contained all the valuable papers belonging to Colonel Smith, and he was the only one who knew the combination. The experts worked at it for day or two, and then gave it up as bad job and advised Mrs. Smith to the door taken off. Washington, July II.—According to reports received at the War Department, Capitain B. K. Ashford, Assistant Surgeon, United States Army, is proving little short of a miracle worker in Porto Rico, where he has cured hundreds of cases of anemia, the disease which is threatening the future of the island. In a short time strong men and women are rendered helpless by the disease and native physicians have been unable to afford relief to the sufferers, much less cure them.

Capitain Ashford and his assistant, Doctor King, of the Marine Hospital Service, went to Dayamm three months ago and announced they would cure the disease. Nearly 1,000 cases of anemia came to them for treatment. They lost but one patient and reduced the mortality of the district, which had 32,000 inhabitants, 30 per cent.

when the doctors left the town six weeks ago and went to Utuave to treat the same disease, a memorial signed by more than 20 citizens was presented to them. At Utuave they have had more than 1,599 cases of the strange malady already, and have cured most of them, losing only four patients.
